Subject: Changes made to Pavillion home page today (announcement of the extension of the comment period on the Draft Report to January 15th)

Dear Ms. Brown and Ms. Temkin,

On the Pavillion home page, I made the following changes:
<http://www.epa.gov/region8/superfund/wy/pavillion>

1. In the "Draft Report" box, I changed "October 16" to "January 15, 2013" in the words, "EPA is accepting public comments on the draft report through January 15, 2013"
2. The link that states "Federal Register Notice announcing extension of public comment period" still has the same wording but now points to the updated version, which is at this address:
http://www.epa.gov/region8/superfund/wy/pavillion/FRN_CommentPeriodExtensionThru1-15-13.pdf
3. The bullets at the end of the Draft Report box are now re-arranged, due to the extension of the comment period and to put them in a more logical order for readers. We also removed one of the bullets that was called "Document details." It was a link to a place in regulations.gov that, in turn, provided a link to the Draft Report. Since that report is already on our Web page, it was redundant. Also, the other Federal Register notice is now at the bottom of the bulleted list and has been renamed "December 2011 Federal Register Notice announcing public comment period" to let people know that this is the original FR notice (to avoid confusion with the current FR notice).
3. We added a "What's New" blurb dated October 16, 2012 that announces the extension of the public comment period.
4. In the March 8 "What's New" entry, we capitalized the words "Draft Report" to remain consistent with how "Draft Report" is referred elsewhere.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,
